MR. CARLSON'S LETTER.

Theory Carlisle writes a long letter which appears in full in today's News, the general drift of which is a denunciation of the financial policy and especially a criticism of the President's action in the Chicago convention. It begins with a statement which will be considered somewhat revealing in the far West, that he has always treated the gold and silver money of the country precisely alike, but has been the greater effort upon silver. Perhaps from the necessary standpoint this is strictly true, but the claim of great treatment is a complete fiction. A few lines further on he says that the silver money may be the same way to be true and the recipient of the impartial treatment still abundant, with good cause, that a little less of such kindness would be more appropriate.

The people of this part of the world do not, except in a very few instances, complain to be pestered by the legislative and general denunciations of the money of the nation as previously applied, or at all. They do know that a hundred dollars of standard money will effect a deal or pay a debt in that extent, and they know further that the government has a monopoly in the matter of coinage, and establishment of legal tender. They also know that for several years past there has been such a diminution in the visible volume of currency that values of all kinds have steadily shrunk and transactions of whatever nature beyond the common affairs of every day life have become harder and harder to bring about. The result of this fact, two conditions they attribute to the fact, one is that when there is a drought they charge it up to lack of rain, or when a house or tree is blown down they know that it has been on a rampage. But the real cause is the fact that the origin of things and give us an explanation which might or might not make the matter plain. The cause is generally the fact that the origin of things and give us an explanation which might or might not make the matter plain.

CONSCIENCE IN POLITICS.

Being in no sense a party organ, and necessarily having no axe to grind, no particular bias to take care of, no desire to favor or to injure any party, we have been able to give a fair and impartial account of the proceedings of the party and of the people of this region. We have been able to give a fair and impartial account of the proceedings of the party and of the people of this region.

We know that there are people who question the ability of Utah to take the lead, and the willingness of other states to follow, in such a course. To know is not one of the duties of the people. To know is not one of the duties of the people. To know is not one of the duties of the people.

The News, in doing this, is doing the duty of a newspaper. It is doing the duty of a newspaper. It is doing the duty of a newspaper. It is doing the duty of a newspaper.

MYTH AND REALITY.

We cannot but feel that a great deal of good has been accomplished in the past few years. We cannot but feel that a great deal of good has been accomplished in the past few years. We cannot but feel that a great deal of good has been accomplished in the past few years.
